RE: CT Scan Results

Dear Mr. Frame:

I have the results of your recent CT scan dated February 14, 2020. You have a single small fragment in the right kidney but there is a large stone near the bladder on the right side. It is just at the opening to the bladder and measures about 1 cm. There are two smaller stones just behind that. It remains to be seen whether you will pass that or whether we will have to remove it. On the left side there are a number of stones in the kidney but none are causing obstruction.

Continue forcing fluids and strain your urine. Follow up with me in August or sooner if you are still having pain.

Best Personal Regards,

Pat Fox Fulgham, M.D.
